CLASS OF 1960

MOUNT EVERETT REGIONAL SCHOOL

Sheffield, Massachusetts

To the Graduates, 1960

Exposure to formal education is not enough: every "educated" person is largely self-taught. The rermination of twelve years of a guided tour through basic information should be regarded as a springboard into pure study and directed effort which can make you, whatever your occupation, an "educated person."

Attendance at a good college is the most expeditious way of furthering this aim - and probably the most economical, since such attendance will usually increase your economic potential - but since libraries, books, magazines, and various educational agencies are available to everyone, there is no valid reason why each of you graduating seniors cannot attain as complete an education as you could possibly desire.

Let this be your aim: To develop your mental, spiritual, and physical potential to the greatest possible degree. If you do, you will have done everything in your power to insure a healthful, happy, and constructive life.

Willard A. Downie
Superintendent of Schools
University of Washington, B.A., B.S.
Columbia University, M.A., ED.D.

Dear Seniors:

I wish to congratulate each of you for completing a major phase of your life.

You have been living for around eighteen years, growing in stature, knowledge and wisdom. Obviously, some of you have learned faster and more than others. Time cannot be turned back to change this; the future does lie ahead, however, and can be shaped very much as you wish.

Your education need not end now; it cannot end now or ever. Your control is in how much, what kind, and to what extent you educate yourself in the future. You have the tools to do the job. Choose your goal, set to the task at hand and do the best you can.

The best of success to each of you.

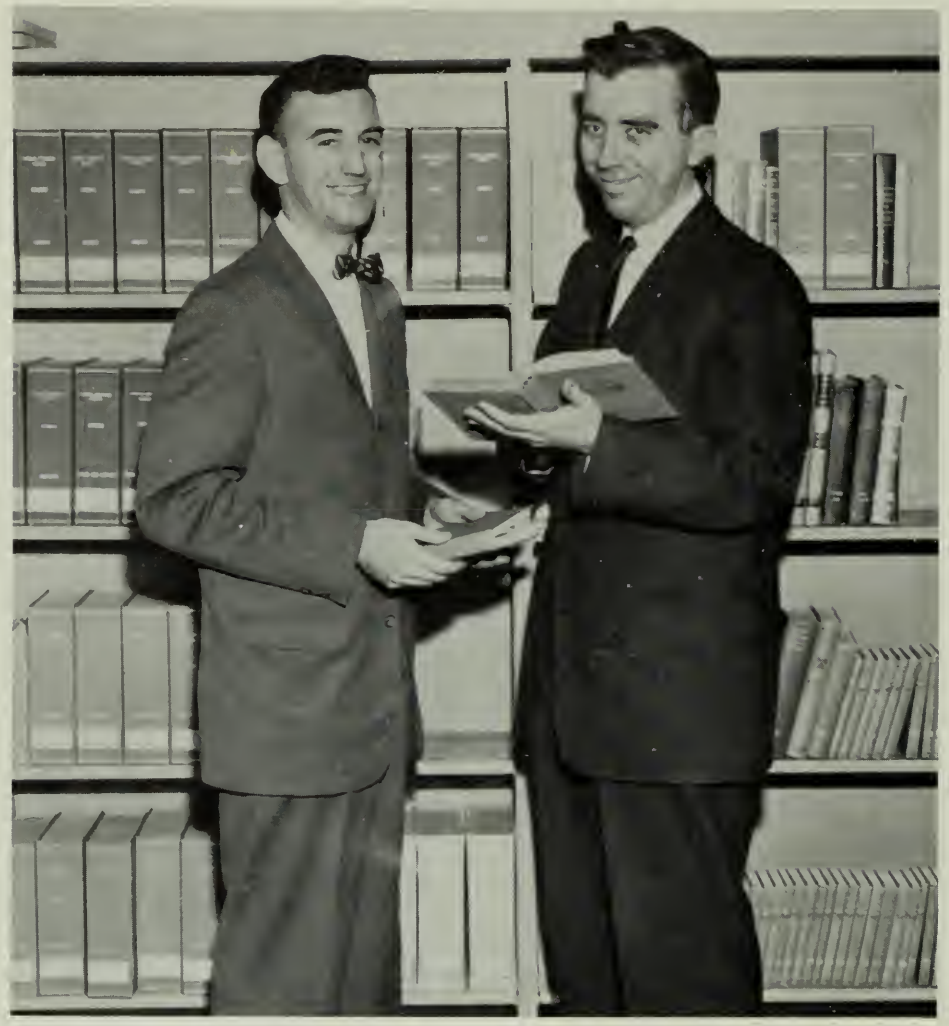

Charles E. Bybee
Principal

FOREWORD

"All the World's a Stage
And one man in his time plays many parts."

We, the students of the senior class, as we draw near the close of school life, have taken the somewhat formidable quotation from Shakespeare as the guiding motto of the 1960 AURIGAN. During our time at Mount Everett, we have, by choice or by circumstance, played many roles - tragedian, clown, athlete, and scholar to name a few. Our history, like the classes before us and those yet to come, has been a real-life drama full of joy and laughter, some tears and many lasting memories. As a result, we have taken, as the theme of this yearbook, a theatre playbill to serve as a guide and reminder of all that has occurred. We have served a twelve-year apprenticeship as understudies before assuming our starring parts, but it has been time well spent. With graduation, the curtain will be "coming down" on some of us in our roles as students. However, we are grateful to our school, our teachers and our classmates for all they have done in preparing us for the biggest role of all - future citizens of our country.

DEDICATION

We, the graduating class, sincerely dedicate our yearbook, the 1960 AURIGAN, to Mr. Torrey and Mr. Finn. All of us realize that without their bountiful patience and aid, our years at Mount Everett would not have been as rewarding. To them we offer our deep appreciation for all their willing help.

MOUNT EVERETT REGIONAL SCHOOL

in Sheffield, Massachusetts, the setting against which our drama evolves, is in many ways unique. Nestled peacefully between the gentle slopes and woodlands of the Berkshires, it has progressed from a vision in the hearts and minds of a dedicated few to a symbol uniting the five townships of Alford, Egremont, Monterey, New Marlboro, and Sheffield.

Designed by architect Warren H. Ashly of West Hartford, and built by the George E. Emerson Company of Pittsfield, the school is located a mile west of Sheffield village, directly off a hard surfaced secondary highway, far from fast moving traffic. A one-story brick venere-layout of 37 rooms, including offices, it houses some five hundred students from grades 5 through 12. Its 85 acres contain plenty of open space for athletic fields, plus 20 acres of woodlands for nature studies, some gentle slopes for winter sports and two streams. What puts the site out of the ordinary is the splendid view of Mount Everett a mile to the west. Incidentally, it was from this mountain that the school received its name as a result of a contest held among the students throughout the district.

With the ground beaking ceremonies on October 5, 1954, the first step of the dream had materialized. From there work moved rapidly ahead so that the school might be ready for the following year. Finally, the great day came. With the cement still wet in the blocks, the doors opened amidst an atmosphere of excitement and anticipation! The curtain had risen on an important new drama.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is a vital organism in the life of our school. In addition to serving as a link, promoting better understanding between the faculty and the students, it also provides a representative student body capable of making recommendations and passing laws, within the framework of existing policies, which benefit the entire school. Furthermore, membership on the council gives each student an opportunity to develop those qualities of responsibility, initiative, leadership and fellowship which are so necessary for successful living.

Some of the accomplishments of the Student Council this year have been the inauguration of "Dress-Up Day" before vacations, the successful petitioning for one-half day of school before winter recess, the providing of a clock for the Student Publications room, the organizing of the school calendar, the compiling of a student handbook and the standardization of the crest for future class rings. For the council, it has, indeed been a busy and productive year.

YEARBOOK STAFF

This year the Aurigan staff is composed of twenty-five members. Under the supervision of Mr. Torrey and the leadership of Penny Peters, the editor-in-chief, the participants whole-heartedly donated their time and skills in order to make the "1960 Aurigan" the best yearbook ever.

The theme for our publication is "All the World's a Stage." Into this the staff has worked all the phases of school life at Mt. Everett. One of the unique features of the book is the full color end sheets. Other innovations are the recognition of individual achievements by student members and a pictorial representation of a typical senior day at Mt. Everett.

JUNIOR CLASS OF '61

As heirs to the long desired title of senior, the junior class anxiously looked forward to September, the third year of our high school lives. We suspected then, and came to realize even more fully later, how important this next to the last rung on the ladder of secondary education could be.

To help and advise us throughout the year we elected the following class officers: President, Marilyn Gaylord; Vice-President, Patsy Cartinelli; Secretary, Shelia Bettis; Treasurer, Ellen A. Chapin; and Student Council Representative, Francis Ryan. Many times their opinions aided and influenced us.

The first of our many activities occurred on November 20, when we sponsored a "Sadie Hawkins Dance," which proved highly successful. Then came the ordering of our class rings and the Never-to-be-forgotten Junior-Senior Prom with its gay Parisian theme. All in all, it was a busy, wonderful year.

FIRST ROW: A. Stevens, F. Ryan, E. Chapin, M. Gaylord, S. Bettis, M. Pezzee, N. Van Deusen, D. Sturdevant. SECOND ROW: P. Morandi, N. Snyder, D. Hall, L. Wells, A. Suffie, M. Swan, A. Suffie, B. As we returned to school in September, we could not help but feel proud that we were no longer the "lowly" freshmen. The beginning of school meant the end of summer vacation but it also meant a chance to renew old friendships and advance another step in our academic careers.

Before we knew it we held our first dance, the "Sophomore Shuffle," on October 2, and felt justifiable proud of its success. At the same time, we could not help but feel this same sense of accomplishment as we watched many members of our class compile outstanding records as participants in our school's many sports activities.

FRESHMAN CLASS OF '63

September, 1959, was an exciting time for us because it marked the beginning of our Freshman year in high school. Besides allowing the opportunity to participate in numerous school activities, it gave us the chance to pursue those fields of education in which we were most interested. To aid us in the numerous decisions to be made, we elected the following class officers: President, Jane Gilligan; Vice-President, Paula Delmolino; Secretary, Dorothy Curtis; Treasurer, John Gilligan; and Student Council Representative, Susan Doane.

FIRST ROW: J. Rhodes, S. Agar, D. Curtis, J. Gilligan, J. Gilligan, S. Doane, D. Smith, E. Spadaccini. SECOND ROW: B. Dozier, K. Wells, J. Blakely, R. Stevens, J. Santos, T. Nicolson, W. Webster. As eighth graders, we realized that our long waiting was nearly over; soon we would be entering high school. With this thought in mind, the year seemed to pass more swiftly than ever. Many of our friends brought new honors to our class by distinguishing themselves in dramatics, science, music, athletics and cheering.

A highlight of the year was our annual dance, held in October but the most exciting event in all, was selecting the courses of study we would follow during our high school lives.

7th GRADE CLASS OF '65

Entering the seventh grade was a very important step in our lives because it marked the end of our elementary school days and the beginning of our high school life. At Mt. Everett, we made many new friends from students throughout the district. What thrilled us most was the fact that we were now permitted to join school clubs, attend assemblies and sponsor our first dance.

EPILOGUE

ENCORE! ENCORE!

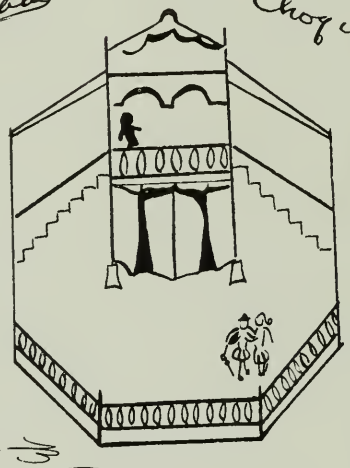

The curtain descends; the scenery and props are stored away to used at a later date; actors, directors; costumers, stage hands, electricians depart. Paradoxically the show has just begun. Now is the moment for which all the members of the drama have worked, their graduation into the future.

Who knows what the years hold in store? From their ranks will come tomorrow's doctors, nurses, engineers, teachers, scientists, and parents. They leave the narrow confines of home and school to step onto the wider stages of the world. For those who watch them go, there is sadness at their departure and pride in their accomplishments. Behind them they leave thousands of memories of rich, wonderful friendships.

On these pages let us pay them one final tribute. Let us clasp to our heart the memory of these students as they are and were. Whatever their destiny, they carry with them the warmest of wishes, for they are tomorrow's hope in an uncertain world.

SCENES

ACTIVITIES

OF '59 '60

ARCHERY CLUB

This old and popular sport has found many new and enthusiastic followers since being added to the list of school activities.

JR. HIGH SCIENCE CLUB

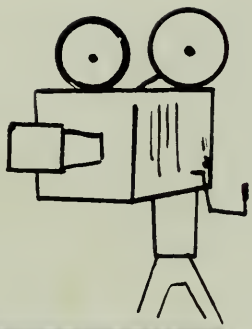

The seriousness of this club is well proven by the fact that one of its members, Seth Lipsky, was a finalist in the Junior High Science Award Contest.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS CLUB

In order that they may be of assistance to their teachers and fellow classmates, members of this organization are taught the proper use of the school's audio-visual aids equipment.

GOLF CLUB

Designed to teach the beginner and improve the skill of the more experienced golfer, this club has enjoyed great popularity throughout the school.

RADIO CLUB

Each Thursday, these students spin the top records of the week on their own "Teenage Hop" program over Station W.S.B.S. in Gt. Barrington.

GLEE CLUB

"The Sound of Music" really fills the air when these girls meet for their twice-weekly rehearsals. Under the direction of Mr. Santos, they have taken part in concerts, assemblies and other school functions.

NEWSPAPER CLUB

This busy group helps keep the students informed of school activities and future plans.

JUNIOR DRAMATICS

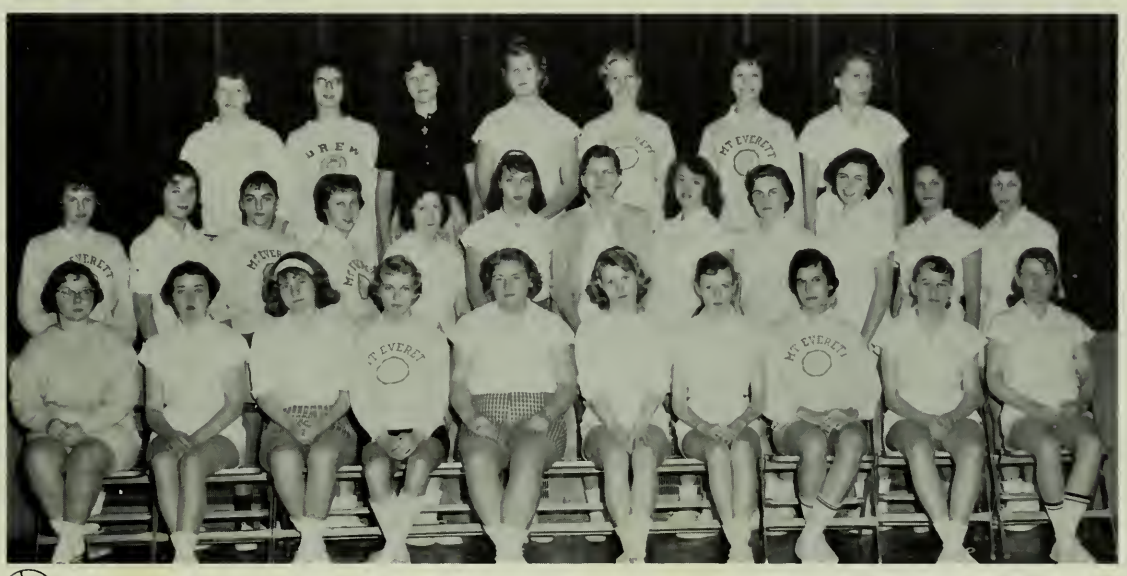

Composed of students from grades 7 and 8, the club enjoyed a very active first season, presenting two original plays by its director, Mr. Finn.

MT. EVERETT

CHEERLEADERS

Through snow, sleet, rain, and hot gym lights, this year's cheerleaders urged the team on to greater efforts.

G.A.A.

Besides giving girls the chance to keep in top physical condition, the girls Athletic Association provides the opportunity of making new friends through competition with other schools.

LIBRARY CLUB

This club has proven a valuable asset to school by helping Mrs. Wilcox, the librarian, with many details of running the department.

ART CLUB

One of their many projects during the year was the making of the crocodile for the Senior Play, "Peter Pan."

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

We are proud of these twenty-one students who, through their character, scholarship, leadership and service to our school, have earned a place on our Honor Society.

Although this was only the football team's second season of competition, it exhibited in all its games a fine potential for things to come. Displaying a keen sense of sportsmanship and the ability to work together well, the squad showed marked improvement in every encounter. From the valuable experience it has gained, the group should prove to be a formidable rival for league honors in future years.

In a season that witnessed much fine playing by the basketball squad, the highlight was undoubtedly the surprise victory over Lee, 51-43. Although there are not many members to the team, they work together well as a strong fighting unit. In all their games, they have exhibited a fine potential for the promising future of increased usefulness to Mt. Everett.

The tumbling team is a group of which our school can well be proud. Composed chiefly of freshmen and sophomores, they are extremely skilled for their years. Besides being an eagerly-awaited attraction of the physical education demonstration in April, the tumblers entered the state-wide competition in Framingham.

BASEBALL

FIRST ROW: P. Smith, G. Rhines, D. Ranolde, B. Barnes, G. Gilligan, D. Coon, B. Coffin, T. Dempsey. SECOND ROW: R. Consolini, K. Miller, J. Palfini, S. Bennett, T. Hitchcock, M. Rioux, M. Bradley. THIRD ROW: M. Decker, B. MacDonald.

Many of Mt. Everett's finest hours were due to the baseball team which was easily the most outstanding interscholastic sport of the year. Encouraged by success and emboldened by a desire to win, the team advanced steadily through a season of triumph.

Equally important as its win record was the popularity of the sport itself throughout the school. Because of the unusually large number of qualified applicants for the team, a division was made, providing for the establishment of a junior varsity group. Such a move cannot help but prove beneficial in providing needed experience for teams to come.
